Introduction:

Trading in financial instruments carries significant risks, and it is important that clients fully understand these risks before engaging in trading activities with DB Investing. This Risk Disclosure Statement provides an overview of the key risks involved in trading financial products such as Contracts for Difference (CFDs), Forex, and other derivatives.

Purpose:

The purpose of this statement is to inform clients of the risks associated with trading financial instruments and to help them make informed decisions.

General Risk Warning:

CFDs and other financial derivatives are complex instruments and come with a high risk of losing money rapidly due to leverage. Clients should consider whether they understand how these instruments work and whether they can afford to take the high risk of losing their money.

Key Risks:

1. Leverage Risk: Leverage can magnify both gains and losses, meaning clients may lose more than their initial investment.

2. Market Risk: The value of financial instruments can fluctuate due to market conditions, including changes in supply and demand, interest rates, and geopolitical events.
3. Liquidity Risk: Some financial instruments may have low liquidity, making it difficult to execute trades at favorable prices.
4. Counterparty Risk: DB Investing acts as a counterparty to clients' trades, and there is a risk that the company may be unable to meet its obligations.
5. Margin Risk: Clients must maintain sufficient margin in their accounts to cover open positions. Failure to do so may result in the liquidation of positions at unfavorable prices.

No Guarantee of Profit:

Trading financial instruments involve a high degree of risk, and there is no guarantee that clients will make a profit. Past performance is not indicative of future results.

Client Responsibility:

Clients are responsible for understanding the risks involved in trading and for managing their own positions. DB Investing encourages clients to seek independent financial advice if they are unsure of the risks associated with trading

Conclusion:

Clients should carefully consider their financial situation, investment objectives, and risk tolerance before engaging in trading with DB Investing. This Risk Disclosure Statement is not exhaustive, and clients are encouraged to read the full terms and conditions of their trading agreement.
