Rollover Definition

Rollover is also called Swap. It is the interest paid or for holding a position overnight. Each world currency has an interest rate connected to it. Since forex is traded in pairs, every trade involves not only two different currencies but also two different interest rates. If the interest rate on the currency you bought is higher than the interest rate of the currency you sold, then you will earn a rollover (positive roll). If the interest rate on the currency you bought is lower than the interest rate on the currency you sold, then you will pay rollover (negative roll). Rollover can add a significant extra cost or profit to your trade depending on.

Rollover Example

When you buy the EUR/USD pair, you are buying the euro, and selling the U.S. dollar to pay for it. If the euro interest rate is 1.00%, and the U.S. rate is 0.25%, you are buying the currency with the higher interest rate, and you will earn rollover — about 0.75% on an annual basis. Conversely, if you sell the EUR/USD pair, you are selling the currency with the higher interest rate, and you will pay rollover — about 0.75% on an annual basis since you are paying the euro interest rate and earning the U.S. interest rate.

Rollover Booking Times

The beginning and end of the forex trading day are considered to be 00:00 (GMT) by our servers. Any positions that are open at 00:00 (GMT) sharp are considered to be held overnight and are subject to rollover. A position opened at 00:01 (GMT) is not subject to rollover until the next day, while a position opened at 23:59 (GMT) is subject to rollover at 00:00 (GMT).

A credit or debit for each position opened at 00:00 (GMT) will appear in your account and be applied directly to your account balance.

Weekends and Holidays

Most banks across the world are closed on Saturdays and Sundays, so there is no rollover on these days, but most banks still apply interest on Saturdays and Sundays. To measure for this, the forex market books three days of rollover on Wednesdays, which makes a typical Wednesday rollover three times the amount. Please note that for some instruments triple swap is applied on Friday. There is no rollover on holidays, but there is an extra day's worth of rollover two business days before the holiday. Typically, holiday rollover happens if any of the currencies traded has a major holiday. Therefore, President in the USA, February 21st, closes American banks, and an extra day of rollover is added at 00:00 (GMT) on the previous working day for all U.S.D pairs.

- 4.9 The company can provide a Dedicated Account Manager who can support the trader and provide the service as a personal consultant/analyst, who from time to time or at my request can provide me with research and advice regarding the financial markets, including trade recommendations based on the consultant's analysis. The company does not charge any commissions or fees, under any circumstances, because the services of the consultant/analyst are provided free of charge. Any decisions to trade or not trade using the trading analysis or strategy provided by the consultant/analyst are made solely by the trader at his/her discretion and the company does not take any responsibility for any profits or losses incurred as a result of the marketing information provided by phone, email, trading signals or third party services who provide to the customer the daily updates.

Also, the company can call the customer for compliance or dealing purposes, in the case, for example, the trading account is in a margin call.

ALL the accounts include this kind of phone service and, in case the customer doesn't want to get it, has to send a written email/letter who refused it.

4.10 Account Types

There are 4 different accounts in DB Investing that you can use according to your needs and preferences. The main difference between them is the Spread ratios to be applied to the operations.

STP Floating Account: the spread is a variable, depending on the market volatility or the asset being traded. This is the unique account that can be used as a Scalping (refer to 4.16).

ECN Floating Account: the spread is a variable, depending on the market volatility or the asset being traded and it is the best spread client can experience.

Islamic Account: Accounts that are traded according to Islamic rules, not applying a swap interest*. It can be used with both of the above. This account is reserved just for Arabic religion people.

PRO Account: the spread is a variable, depending on the market volatility or the asset being traded.

- 4.11 The company opens standard STP accounts as a default. In the case, that the customer needs an Islamic or an ECN Account, must notify immediately to the company immediately via ticket system or email.
- 4.12 No swap fees will be refunded if are previously paid on the Standard STP account and before the swap account request from the client and related company compliance approval.
- 4.13 If an STP, ECN or Islamic account is used as a Scaping account or just to abuse a bonus promotion, the company has the right to terminate the contract. The account will be immediately closed, and all profits will be cancelled as a penalty, along with a minimum penalty of 500$ to cover compliance and dealing checks, as well as account closing fees.

- 4.14 Swap Free/Islamic Accounts conditions: The company offer a swap-free trading account for residents of Islamic countries who observe Sharia law. With swap-free status, no swap is credited to or withdrawn from a trading account.

The Islamic/swap-free account allows some instruments, to be traded without any swap charge, and the same trades need to be kept open for a maximum of 7 days consecutive days.

The Islamic account instruments are limited, and the client must trade for over 50% of the trades and over 50% of the instruments, that are not included in the swap-free list.

When the company find an abuse in the Islamic account, we shall reserve the right to:

- Cancel the swap-free status on all trading accounts.
- Once swap-free status is discontinued, swap charges will be applicable for open orders and orders opened in the future.

We consider “abuse” in the Islamic account, an account where the majority of the trades and the instruments trades, are just swap-free.

Improper use includes but is not limited to, situations where a large portion of transactions on a trading account would have been subject to negative swap charges, which were not levied by DB Investing in accordance with the swap-free status of the account.

At the moment the system detects an abuse, the company has the right to post-check and post-debit the swap costs and send the client a first warning.

All the withdrawals coming from Islamic accounts are dept monitored to be sure the client didn't abuse the swap-free account offer, which reason why the withdrawal can get slightly delayed for that reason.

Multiple warnings for the swap-free/Islamic account will be considered a breach of the Terms and Conditions, then the company can decide to change the client account type and charge swap or also close the client account giving a notice period, where the clients must close all the trades.

- 4.15 Latency Arbitrage (LA) and High-Frequency Trading Strategies are not allowed, especially if an account has received a welcome bonus.

- 4.16 Scalping Activity: this is a day trading strategy where an investor buys and sells individual instruments multiple times throughout the same day and within seconds or minutes.

An account where such strategy is applied on over 30% of the instruments or over 30% of the trades is considered a Scalping Account. Such a strategy can't be applied in accounts different from an STP, which means an Islamic or ECN account.

The company allow such a strategy just for STP accounts and also if the total Scalping Ratio is below 50% of the total trades or instruments.

In the case, that an account different than STP has been used as a scalping account, where the trades are closed within 5 minutes, the company has the right to apply a penalty equal to the total profits gained on the trading account.

4.17 Abusing: In the case of a trader that is using the following strategies not allowed (Latency Arbitrage (LA), High-Frequency Trading, Arbitrage Trading, and Scalping Trading), the trader account will be immediately closed, without any prior notice, together with all open positions and the company will not be liable for any losses incurred at this moment.

In addition to returning the full deposit amount to the account owner, the company has the right to charge commissions and bank/PSP fees on the related deposits and withdrawals.

If the company has already returned part of the deposits through Withdrawals, it will return the withdrawal difference amount and close the account.

The profit eventually accumulated is cleared and reverted to the client as a penalty for the breach of the terms and conditions.

40. SWAP AND SPREAD RATES

The Swap and Spread ratios applied when Investing with DB Investing are indicated on our website at the page <https://www.DB Investing.com/trading-conditions/>

For investors who are new to trading, we have briefly summarized what these expressions mean.

Swap

Swap Fees are the cost of a trade that is applied to transactions that are open at the end of the day resulting from the difference between the interest rates of the countries to which the currency pair is traded. “Forex” money is lent money in Forex markets and “Sold” money is borrowed. According to this logic, you can see the swap income or cost as follows in the simplest way;

Swap position

If the interest rate of the received money is low and the interest rate of the money being sold is high (-), the cost is deducted from the investor’s account.

If the interest rate of the sold money is low and the interest rate of the money received is high (+) It is returned to the investor as income.

Rules Regarding Swap Fees

Swap costs or revenues are not applied to positions closed on the same day. Swap rates apply to positions that are still open at the end of the day.

Change swap balances because of the interest rates of the countries to which the relevant currency units belong.

A 3-day swap is applied to positions that are not yet closed on Thursdays (equivalent to the value of the weekend) because the Forex market is valued at +2 days. On other days this practice is 1 day.

You can choose the Islamic Account option as a non-swap-based application.

Spread

The difference between the buying and selling prices of financial assets is called “Spread” and is expressed in “pip” unit.

For example, if the buying price is 1.1225 and the selling price is 1.1223 in the EURUSD parity, this spread is 2 pips for Spread ($1,1225 - 1,1223 = 0,002$). Therefore, when you open a lot (i.e. 100 thousand units) in one lot, you will end up with a cost of $0,0002 * 100,000 = 20$ USD Spread.

It is only the cost to open this position. If the parity reaches 1,1227, your cost will be zero. Spread, which is an important cost for the investor, can be fixed or variable. Variable Spread is low at times of increased liquidity in the markets but may be high in liquidity shortage. Fixed Spreads are fixed values offered to investors of brokerage houses.
